" X " Y " Z .A unique and long-held urban legend has emerged again this week after one Reddit user posted an image of a purported photograph of Freddy Krueger's iconic hand-written note in Wes Craven's A Nightmare On Elm Street, which was featured on Robert Englund's IMDb.com page as recently as February 3rd, 2017. In 2010, I wrote a story for Hellnotes about a fact-checking website who had confirmed the authenticity of a claim by a group of residents that resided on a street in Georgia who had claimed to have spoken with Freddy Krueger

during the 1960's. One of the residents claimed he received a handwritten note from Krueger, but if he would be willing to show me the note, I would have fact-checked it for him. The photograph was posted on May 2, 2017, when a Reddit user named "Lionheart2" posted the image of the hand-written note with the comment, "Currently living in Georgia with a sister and her family. Our great aunt received this note sometime between the early to mid 70s, probably from when she lived in this house. It's addressed to herself and is probably a copy/paste job of something she pulled off of the internet. " In the original post, 1cdb36666d

Finally, roflumilast acts on peroxisome proliferator-activated receptor- $\gamma$ , an important transcription factor for macrophage differentiation, survival and activation \[@B59]\], and anti-inflammatory responses \[@B60]\]. These features, together with anti-proliferative, anti-proliferative, and pro-apoptotic activity, might explain the favorable response of Kaposi's sarcoma to Roflumilast treatment in a patient with severe pulmonary emphysema and Kaposi's sarcoma. It is also interesting the positive improvement of pulmonary function after 1 month of administration of Roflumilast in a patient with severe pulmonary emphysema and Kaposi's sarcoma that was already on Systemic chemotherapy, although the difference after 2 months of treatment did not reach statistical significance. Pulmonary function tests are a widely used tool for the diagnosis and follow-up of the evolution of COPD. Peak expiratory flow (PEF) is the most widely used test for the evaluation of the severity of COPD and it is frequently used for monitoring responses to therapy \[[@B61]\].

However, in the present case, the PEF parameter did not increase after 2 months of therapy with Roflumilast. PEF is also a sensitive marker of the long-term responses of clinical symptoms of patients to treatment. In this context, the positive effects of Roflumilast treatment on clinical symptoms, such as the significant reduction of the 6MWT and the improvement of dyspnea grade, and the negative effects on the FVC, FEV<sub>1</sub> and PEF indexes are encouraging findings. Of note, dyspnea is the first and most important respiratory symptom of COPD. According to the guidelines of the Global Initiative for Chronic Obstructive Lung Disease (GOLD), dyspnea is the cardinal and defining symptom of COPD \[[@B62]\]. In addition, the importance of this symptom as a factor in patients' quality of life has been increasingly recognized over the last decade \[[@B63]\].

The current study focused on the administration of Roflumilast at a dosage of 0.8 mg/die for 2 months to a patient with severe pulmonary emphysema and Kaposi's sar
