"We have carried out extensive testing on the 2.5L V-6 in Europe, and we believe we can achieve the same level of refinement with reduced emissions in the U.S." Morita said. The Mazda 2.5L will use the same basic engine architecture used in the Mazda 2.0L diesel, with the top version being a 3.3L V-6. The 2.5L is much smaller than Mazda's top engine, which puts out a 3.9L V
